

ABSTRACT

A computer system receives a description of a finite state machine including a temporal logic condition and generates code for emulating the described finite state machine.

20183814.doc